With 3 billion people at risk of infection in 109 malarious countries and territories, and with around 250 million cases annually, leading to approximately 1 million deaths, malaria is one of the leading causes of death worldwide from a single infectious disease.¹ Malaria remains a public health problem in Nigeria, causing about 60% of all outpatient attendances and 30% of all hospital admissions. It is responsible for nearly 110 million clinical cases and an estimated 300 000 deaths per year, including up to 11% of maternal mortality. Malaria's economic impact is also enormous, with about N132 billion lost to the disease every year in the form of treatment costs, prevention, loss of working hours, etc.
